

BUILDING STUDENTS' INTEREST IN TRADES

RICK WOOD / RWOOD@JOURNALSENTINEL.COM

Breonna Miller, 13, a student at Grantosa School in Milwaukee, gets some help smoothing out concrete Tuesday from Scott Hink, apprentice coordinator for Masons Union Local 599, at a construction trades fair at the Waukesha County Expo Center in Waukesha. Hundreds of students from area schools learned about a variety of trades in which they could seek careers.

Casey Kienbaum, 16, a student at New Berlin Eisenhower High School, competes in a nail driving contest during Tuesday's trades expo. The event continues today.